GEN. DIAZ PUTS TO SEA ON U. S. BATTLESHIP

Refugees Will Be Transferred to New York and Cuban Mail Steamship in Mid-Ocean—President Discusses Mexican Situation With Counselor Moore of State Department—Americans Unable to Leave Stricken City of Chihuahua for Fear of Their Lives.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Mexico City, Oct. 31.—The rebel force which for several days has been attacking Monterey has been driven from the vicinity of the city according to private and railroad telegrams received at the capital.

Seven hundred federal troops under Generals Telles and Jaas reached the city today after a nine days' trip from Laredo.

The first accurate report of the destruction of railroad property by revolutionaries at Monterey which reached the offices of the Mexican National Railway here yesterday, shows that 657 freight cars, three passenger coaches and 17 locomotives were consumed and that 17 freight cars were partially consumed. The shops, machinery and roundhouse of the Old Mexican Central railway were destroyed. Many of the cars destroyed were loaded with merchandise. No estimate of the money loss, the railroad men say, is possible.

GEN. DIAZ PUTS TO SEA WITH COMPANIONS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Vera Cruz, Oct. 31.—Gen. Felix Diaz and his companions put to sea today on board the American battleship Michigan to which they had been transferred by Rear Admiral Fletcher from the flagship Louisiana. The course of the Michigan was laid for Havana.

No public announcement of the departure of the fugitives was made and friends of General Diaz on shore were unaware this morning that he had left.

Two German warships, the Hertha and the Bremen are now in this port, the Bremen having just arrived from Saint Thomas.

WILL TRANSFER TO STEAMSHIP

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, Oct. 31.—Gen. Felix Diaz and his party are bound to a point of progress, Yucatan, where they will be transferred to a New York and Cuban mail steamship. This information reached the navy department today in a despatch from Read Admiral Fletcher, commanding the American squadron in Mexican waters. The battleship Michigan, carrying the refugees should reach Progress tomorrow. Admiral Fletcher did not say upon what vessel the refugees would sail and no mention was made of their ultimate destination.

Secretary Daniels of the navy department returned from Mobile today and had a long conference with the president. He said he did not discuss Mexico but took up the question of naval estimates. He indicated that the number of battleships for this year's program would not be decided for some time.

President Wilson, and Counselor John Bassett Moore, of the state department discussed the Mexican situation today at length. As most of the members of the cabinet were away there was no session of the president's official family.

AMERICANS ARE PANIC STRICKEN

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Dallas, Texas, Oct. 31.—A dispatch to the Dallas News from El Paso and Chihuahua City, Mex., says the city was evacuated by the federal forces yesterday, leaving the city open to capture without resistance by Pancho Villa's rebels. Villa's men had occupied the outskirts of Chihuahua before the abandonment. The federals were said to have retreated toward Juarez. The dispatch says: "Thousands of Mexicans and Americans who were unable to board the ten troop trains are panic stricken. They have no means of getting away from the stricken city and fear to hold for their lives. Many believe the followers of Orozco will be given no quarter by Villa during the occupation of the state capital. What few residents of the city who have horses and wagons are following in the wake of the military trains, carrying all their possessions with them."

The fear for Orozco's sympathizers are based on resentment expressed by rebels against him for fighting in the federal army.

MEXICAN REBELS TORTURE GUARDS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
San Luis Potosi, Mex., Oct. 31.—A force of 600 revolutionists yesterday rounded up, tortured and killed 47 out of 50 mounted policemen sent from here to protect a ranch twenty miles to the west. Their mutilated bodies were in many cases hung on trees. The three policemen who escaped returned here.

Bodies of revolutionists today threatened communication between here and Aguascalientes. A train left that town this morning carrying a heavy guard and rapid fire guns.

REV. W. D. WARD MEETS WITH AN ACCIDENT

Rev. W. D. Ward, pastor of the Central Church of Christ, is confined to his home in West Locust street as the result of an injury sustained several evenings ago in the vicinity of the Old Stone Church where he had expected to hold services. Mr. Ward was stopping at the home of a friend and was just starting for the church when he stepped off the porch and dropped a distance of about seven feet tearing the ligaments loose in his left ankle, necessitating the encasing of the leg in a plaster of Paris cast. He is able to be around with the aid of crutches but will fill his pulpit Sunday as usual.

AMERICAN LINER RESCUES CREW OF FRENCH VESSEL

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Hamburg, Germany, Oct. 31.—Twenty-two of the twenty-five men in the crew of the French bark Patrie were rescued today in mid-ocean by the Hamburg-American liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie.

The liner found the Patrie burning and disabled in mid-Atlantic, according to wireless dispatches. The German captain launched boats and took off the crew. Three of the French sailors had been washed overboard and drowned just before the arrival of the liner.

The Patrie was a vessel of 300 tons displacement and sailed from Fremont, France. The Kronprinzessin Cecilie is on the way here from Mexico.

CLERK OF $20 PER SPENDS $55,000 IN A SHORT TIME

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
New York, Oct. 31.—John C. Schildknecht, the $20 a week clerk of the Washburn-Crosby company, who is charged with having spent $55,000 of his employers' money in high living within six months, pleaded not guilty today to indictments charging him with grand larceny and forgery in default of $10,000 bail. Schildknecht went back to the Tombs to await trial.

DECIDE TO DISARM THE STRIKERS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Trinidad, Colo., Oct. 31.—Adjutant General Chase, after a conference with his staff today decided to enter the Ludlow strikers' colony where more than one thousand armed men have been staying since the strike was called and proceed with their disarmament. Confines continued on plans by which the troops could enter Ludlow without precipitating a battle with the strikers, a feat which the adjutant general said would be the most difficult problem yet encountered.

Strikers, except at Ludlow, are delivering their arms and ammunition. Conditions at every mine camp and strikers' colony throughout last night were quiet, according to reports from the adjutant general's tent. The artillery prepared to move toward Ludlow sometime today. General Chase said it would have orders to halt three miles from the tents. The strikers swarm the hills for miles about Ludlow.

Charles G. Gates, Advocate of "Speed Life," Dead at 37, Leaves Widow Large Fortune

Mrs. Charles G. Gates, widow of the son of John W. Gates, through the death of her young husband suddenly in Wyoming, comes into a share of one of the largest fortunes in the world. She will be one of the richest widows in the world, unless the will of young Mr. Gates leaves most of his fortune to his mother, Mrs. John W. Gates.

Mr. Gates was only thirty-seven years old when he dropped dead at Cody, Wyo., after a successful hunting trip in the Rocky Mountains. Mrs. Gates was his second wife. His first was Miss Mary W. Martin of St. Louis. They were married 13 years when she concluded to set a divorce. Later she married again and she died this September.

The widow left by the young millionaire was Miss Florence Hopwood of Minneapolis, whom he married in September, 1911. The news of the engagement came while the young man was in Paris in connection with the death of his father.

Young Gates's motto was "speed." He traveled much of his time, especially when he had anything important to attend to, in special trains, which had a clear right of way. He made one trip to New York from Arizona, in record time, and another from Minneapolis.

PROGRESSIVE LEADER AFTER MORE PLUMS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Columbus, Oct. 31.—Walter F. Brown, of Toledo, leader of the Progressive forces of the state today held a lengthy conference with Governor Cox. Although no official statement was issued it was reported about the capital that Mr. Brown was making efforts to induce the governor to give members of the Progressive party of the state places as tax commissioners under the Warnes law. There are scores of appointments to be made and the Progressives are anxious to land a number of them.

Some time ago Mr. Brown conferred with Governor Cox regarding the appointment of tax commissioners. It is said, urging that Progressives be given places in many of the counties, but at that time the Supreme court had not passed on the ruling of Secretary Grave relative to the throwing out of the Equity Association petitions on the Warnes law. Now that the decision has been given sustaining Mr. Graves' action and the Warnes law will become effective without a referendum. It is said that Mr. Brown took the first opportunity to again express his wishes to Governor Cox. In counties where more than one tax commissioner is to be appointed it is said that Mr. Brown is urging the governor to recognize the members of the new party who are fitted to act in capacity of the commissioners.

In counties where the population of which is sufficient under the law to permit the appointment of only one commissioner, it is expected that Democrats only will be appointed. It is in the larger counties that Mr. Brown wants the governor to give the Progressives at least an even break with the Republicans, it is said.

BELKNAP CASE WITHDRAWN BY MUTUAL CONSENT

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Columbus, Oct. 31.—The Supreme court will not review the case of John T. Belknap, of Steubenville, indicted in Jefferson county under the corrupt practices act for not reporting all expenses in his campaign for election as Common Pleas judge. On mutual consent of his attorneys and the attorney's department, the case was withdrawn today.

This action is the result of the Supreme court's decision in a similar case, that of Judge Mansfield, of Steubenville, that the state may not bring a misdemeanor case to the Supreme court on a bill of exceptions.

WOULD REVIEW BAXTER CASE.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Columbus, Oct. 31.—Prosecuting Attorney E. C. Turner of Franklin county, today argued in the Supreme court the application for review of the case of Frank Baxter, former state bank superintendent, on a bill of exceptions brought from the Common Pleas court here, where the case was thrown out on the ground that no actual legal misuse of funds occurred when he returned funds borrowed from the Columbus Savings and Trust company, while it was being liquidated.

The decision of the court on the question of whether it may review a felony case brought from a Common Pleas court by a prosecuting attorney or attorney general on a bill of exceptions, may have a bearing on such cases as those of Cyrus Huling, former president of the defunct Columbus Savings and Trust company and Isaac B. Cameron, former state treasurer, which were thrown out in the Common Pleas court here. Smith W. Bennett counsel for Cameron and Huling, argued before the court that the Supreme court has no jurisdiction to review such cases of felony brought to it on bills of exceptions, under the new amendment changing judicial procedure.

The court's ruling will establish what is considered an important principle of legal procedure.

PRAISE ACCORDED GOOD GOVERNMENT OF NEWARK BY ATTY. GEN. HOGAN

Enthusiastic Meeting Held at Convention Room of Court House Last Evening Which Was Not Large Enough to Accommodate Crowd

BRILLIANT ADDRESS OF AN ELOQUENT ORATOR

Democratic Party Has Built Up Public Honesty and a Sound Business Administration Has Succeeded Corruption and Dishonesty Which Held Full Sway Under Republican Regime—Touches on the Local Political Situation and Advocates Continuance of the Present Law Enforcement.

The convention room of the court house proved entirely inadequate to accommodate the crowd which had filled it long before the reception committee, escorted by the Buckeye band, brought Attorney General Timothy S. Hogan into the assembly room to address Newark Democrats.

The windows were opened, so those standing outside could hear General Hogan's address. The crowd was not exclusively composed of Democrats. Hundreds of Newark citizens, irrespective of party affiliation, gathered to hear Ohio's brilliant attorney general.

The windows were opened, so those standing outside could hear General Hogan's address. The crowd was not exclusively composed of Democrats. Hundreds of Newark citizens, irrespective of party affiliation, gathered to hear Ohio's brilliant attorney general.

Chairman Edwin M. Larson of the Democratic Executive committee called the meeting to order and presented ex-Prosecutor Phil B. Smythe to preside as chairman of the evening. With characteristic eloquence, Mr. Smythe reviewed the accomplishments of the present city administration, summarizing his talk with the assertion that the only charge administration opponents have been able to bring is that there has been strict law enforcement. He declared the slogan of the campaign: "Good Government and Law Enforcement."

Mr. Smythe presented Attorney General Hogan as one of the most conspicuous exponents of good government and law enforcement.

Early in his remarks Attorney General Hogan paid his respects to the American Tribune which published in its Thursday edition, what General Hogan declared to be an "absolute falsehood" and which he believed emanated from the Republican press bureau at Columbus.

It was in connection with an allegation that Attorney General Hogan sanctioned appointment of a member of the general assembly as assistant counsel in his office. This he emphatically denied, explaining that the appointment of Representative Black of Cincinnati in the state bank examiner's department was without his recommendation or sanction.

Not only did the attorney general pay his respects to those who made capital out of the Black incident, but he took occasion to drop significant remarks relative to the state depository suits.

He predicted that "at least $200,000 of graft money deposited in certain favored banks in Columbus, in Ashland and George B. Cox's bank in Cincinnati, will be taken out and returned to the state treasury where it belongs."

He declared the Democrats never said anything so bitterly mean about the Republican party as its own ungrateful children said about it, and expressed himself as "glad public honesty has been so built up under Democratic example that even a bitterly partisan paper like the Tribune will ask for honesty."

He spoke of the "Get back" movement in the Republican and Progressive parties, and declared he believed if any Bull Moosers did happen to go back they would find the Republican party the worst old hack they'd ever ridden in.

The attorney general emphatically expressed himself as opposed to the short ballot, on the ground that it was un-American, un-democratic and unjust, in that it would prove a dangerous step toward the centralization of power by appointment.

Touching on the local situation, Attorney General Hogan said:

"No city has given better evidence of good government to the attorney general's office in the last two years than has Newark."

"Your chairman has said the opponents of Mayor Swartz's administration have only the complaint that the law has been enforced. That is a good sign, and you could not do better than to continue an administration that means strict enforcement of the laws of the state and the city."

"Differences discussed before the election are vital. It is well that citizens will take an interest in their government by discussing its needs and its welfare, and then, after the election, work to the common purpose of law enforcement and good government."

The attorney general's audience was enthusiastic, and frequently interrupted him with applause. At the conclusion of his address, a motion picture by ex-Prosecutor James R. Fitzgibbon, that he be tendered a vote of thanks for his excellent address, brought a mighty shout of approval from the gathering.

The attorney general was entertained at dinner at Hotel Warden and escorted to the meeting place by a reception committee composed of Hon. W. D. Fulton, Hon. James R. Fitzgibbon, Chairman Edwin M. Larson, Sheriff F. E. Slabaugh, Editor J. H. Newton, C. H. Spencer, City Solicitor Roderic Jones, ex-Senator William E. Miller, Prosecuting Attorney J. Howard Jones, W. H. Anderson, Hon. Phil B. Smythe, and Judge Robbins Hunter.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

He will go direct to Winnipeg and Toronto and will then return to the United States, stopping first at Chicago. The general was a little under the weather during the trip over and remained in his stateroom. He is 37 years old. For years he was his father's chief lieutenant.

PRISONER IS ACCUSED OF A TRIPLE MURDER

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Ray, N. D., Oct. 31.—D. T. Dillon, who, with his wife and daughter was shot down at the Dillon farm some days ago, died today. Thadys Dillon, a brother from Indiana, who has been at the bedside of the dying man since last Saturday, is suffering a nervous breakdown as a result of the tragedy.

The death of Dillon destroys an important link of evidence upon which the authorities based the charge that Cleve Culbertson, under arrest at Williston, committed the triple murder. Feeling runs high and the jail in which Culbertson is being held, is heavily guarded. Dillon, in a dying statement, accused Culbertson of the crime.

Editor-Minister Renews Fight Against Officials of the Anti-Saloon League

Columbus, O., Oct. 31.—Coincident with announcement of the program of the temperance workers who meet here Nov. 10, the fight against the general officers of the Anti-Saloon league and their policies, waged intermittently for several years, will be renewed by Rev. U. G. Robinson, Baptist minister and prohibitionist editor of St. Louis. Literature detailing the alleged wrongful influence of P. A. Baker, superintendent, and other members of the board of trustees of the league has been received by Columbus citizens. While the chief object of the opposition is declared to be the breaking up of the control of men now in charge of the national organization, many other charges are made by prohibitionist opponents. It is alleged that men of immoral character are employed in important positions by the league. These men are named and instances of their alleged misconduct are sworn to in affidavits and printed in The National Issue, prohibitionist paper of St. Louis, of which Rev. Mr. Robinson is editor.

is imposed upon the people and starts from the top rather than being built up from the bottom. It is a trust and a monopoly, controlled by a few men and utterly undemocratic in its plan of organization. In connection with this, Rev. Mr. Robinson cites the fact that the national convention has no actual powers, but that the board of trustees is all-important. He also charges the board is not constitutionally constituted at present. He says this board is the creation of Superintendent Baker.

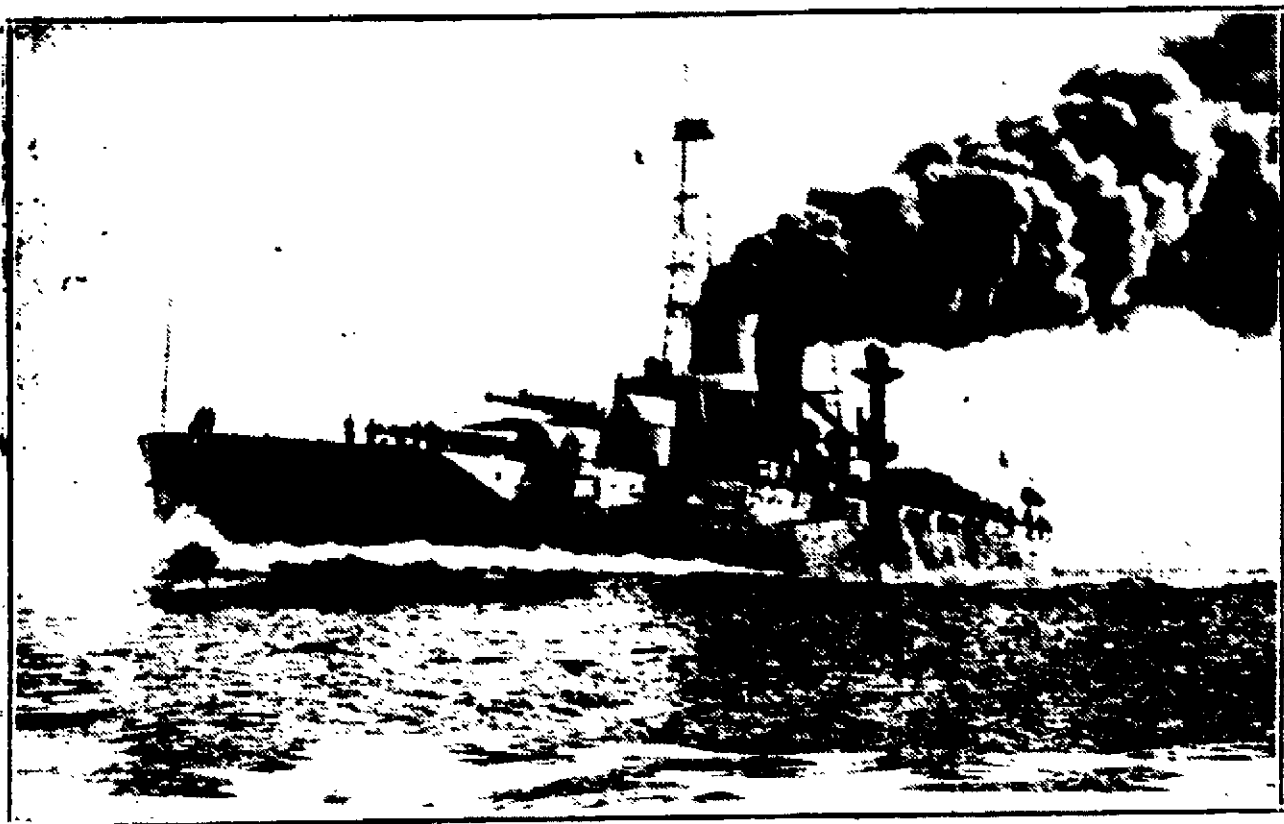

One of the charges which will be placed before the convention is alleged misappropriation of funds and property by the incorporators of the Anti-Saloon League of America. It is charged that approximately $150,000 worth of property in Columbus and Westerville, supposedly belonging to the league, is really held in fee simple by the American Issue Publishing company, an organization for profit, the stock of which is held by a few men and who receive the profits.

Before carrying the fight to the convention the opposition offered to submit these charges to a board of Columbus people for consideration and report to the convention. However, the league officials did not, it is said, consent to such action. Rev. Mr. Robinson threatens to publish letters from F. B. Abbott, first assistant commissioner of Indian affairs, and former Assistant Secretary of the Interior Samuel Adams, telling of the alleged bad record of W. E. Johnson in the Indian service. Mr. Johnson is now managing editor of The American Issue, Anti-Saloon League publication.

Rev. Mr. Robinson, who, it is said, will lead the fight here during the convention, besides publishing The National Issue, is an honorary member of the W. C. T. U. and resigned in 1908 as state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League in Missouri, after ten years' organizing work. According to his statement, he later started the fight on the league officials because of evidence of corruption in the Missouri league after he discontinued the work.

Civil service examination. The civil service examination for postoffice clerks and carriers will be held at Bliss Business College, Saturday morning, Nov. 1, at 9 o'clock.

Texas, World's Greatest Battleship, Successful in Test.

In the new battleship, Texas, five turrets, three forward and two aft, all on a central line so arranged as to fire over one another. The Texas is eleven feet longer than any battleship in the United States navy, being 573 feet over all. Her beam is 95 feet 2 1/2 inches, which will give her almost fifteen feet leeway in passing through the Panama Canal locks. Her draught of 25 1/2 feet will enable her to enter at least four of the Atlantic navy yards and one on the Pacific coast.

Eugenics Won't Lessen Desertions

By Judge NORRIS S. BARRATT of Philadelphia

EUGENIC MARRIAGES WILL NOT LESSEN THE NUMBER OF CASES IN THE DESERTION COURT.

A DEEP AFFECTION must also be one of the requirements if the eugenic marriage is to be a success.

Young folk should take time to STUDY ONE ANOTHER before they agree to marry if they expect to live happily. There are TOO MANY MARRIAGES ON SHORT ACQUAINTANCE, and after the glamor has worn off in a few weeks the young husband deserts the wife or the girl goes back to her parents thoroughly disillusioned.

Although eugenic marriages are not a big factor in desertion cases, social diseases are often at the bottom of divorce and desertion cases, though the real trouble is seldom brought out in court.

An Old Time Sea Serpent.

Good Bishop Pontopidan in his celebrated "Natural History of Norway" tells the story of a boat's crew of eight sailors under a certain Captain De Perry who encountered a formidable looking sea serpent off the Norwegian coast along the middle of the eighteenth century. The animal, according to all accounts, was some 600 feet long or about the size of a modern battleship. The crew at first endeavored to entice the monster into the boat, but the wily beast responded by lashing the water so furiously with its tail that one of the seamen was carried out of the boat on a wave at least 100 feet high, which the serpent with the incessant beating of its tail kept towering rigidly in the air for nearly ten minutes. Meanwhile the seaman slid safely down the other side and back into the boat. Immediately the crew began an assault upon the monster, which they maintained with such fury that the beast turned tail and fled. According to the captain, he went so fast that he "disappeared on the horizon twenty miles away almost on the moment that he began the retreat."

Waking From Sleep.

That is the test of robust health—the manner in which you rise from your bed in the morning. When a man is in perfect health he awakens naturally if his body has been sufficiently refreshed by his rest. The hours of repose are a matter of habit and temperament. In many cases, mental activity is at its height in those first minutes of waking. Poets and authors have conceived brilliant ideas in those moments of perfect physical repose, the brain alert and the organs and tissues toned up after their rest. Reluctance to leave the bed is not a good sign—a really healthy man is too full of vigor to loiter. Quantity, not quality, is the ruling factor in sleep. The broken slumber or fitful slumber is not rest, for at such times neither brain nor body is in repose. Four hours of sleep with all feeling and thought in abeyance are worth more than nine hours of restlessness.

Knew Him as Well.

A certain carabanchon, an old gentleman not long ago deceased, was a coachman, who was required, at one of his last interviews, to pass in his intimate acquaintance with the noble household. But to his great surprise he received not a single word from the vacant post.

"I cannot understand it at all," he said, as during a chat one day with an old soldier at the local military station he had mentioned the fact.

"Let me see," said the latter, as a gleam of intelligence shined across his face. "Ye had visited, I believe, for one as must be well acquainted with the neighborhood, didn't ye?"

"I did," replied the old gentleman shortly. "I want some one who knows his way about."

"Ah, that explains it," was the answer. "Ye see, they who know the neighborhood well knows ye too!"—Exchange.

His Pretty Compliment.

When the Dowager Queen Margherita of Italy was the lovely young bride of the crown prince this anecdote of her reception in one of the hill towns was widely told in the press.

The little boy who was to present the usual bouquet was the son of a distinguished literary man, and he had been taught a pretty poem of a few lines in graceful praise of the princess. But when the moment came to recite it he stood mutely gazing at her, too overcome to speak. After a moment, in order to relieve the situation, the princess smiled and held out her hand for the flowers. The little fellow held back for a moment, then, to the delight of the assembly, explained confidentially as he gave the flowers to her: "There were verses, but you are so beautiful I can't remember them."

Schumann, the Composer.

Robert Schumann, the great composer, tried to become a lawyer to please his mother and failed after two years of wearisome study. At Heidelberg university he made the acquaintance of Wilhelm Alexis, who had already trodden the path Schumann was destined to follow—that through the law to music. And the eminent jurist whose classes he attended, A. F. J. Tuitant, was an amateur musician of high attainments and the author of a work on precisely that aspect of music to which Schumann was peculiarly sensitive—namely, purity in musical art.

fooling the Farmer's Wife.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Cackling Hen Was Not Popular.

"COVE," said daddy after listening to Jack's story of the wonderful things that he could do when he played ball in the field with the other boys. "I've heard it said that self-praise is no praise."

Edwin laughed, and Jack joined in, looking a little ashamed. "That's like that are apt to grow on one. That's the way it was with Mrs. Biddy."

"Mrs. Biddy was the biggest, whitest and fattest hen in the farmyard. She was a well behaved hen enough until some one—the humbugging old rooster like you—told her she had a very beautiful voice."

"Now, this is a very wrong and a very unfortunate notion for the white hen or for any other hen to get into her head. Laying eggs, not singing, is a hen's business."

"Mrs. Biddy couldn't crow like the roosters, of course. She wouldn't have cared to do that. She would have thought it very unladylike to crow. Mrs. Biddy cackled."

"Now, as you may know, there is a time when every sensible hen is expected to cackle. That is when she lays an egg."

"Mrs. Biddy not only cackled when she laid an egg, but she cackled between times. At first the farmer's wife was deceived and would come running out to Biddy's nest to get an egg every time the hen cackled."

"Whenever this that white hen? the farmer's wife said to her husband. 'She cackles all the time.'"

"A cackling hen is no good, my dear," the farmer replied. "You would better put her into the pot."

"But the farmer's wife was proud of the handsome white hen, and she said that she hoped Mrs. Biddy would stop."

"But Mrs. Biddy didn't stop cackling. After awhile she stopped laying eggs, but she cackled just the same. Some of the other hens made fun of her, some wouldn't have anything to do with her, and even the old gray rooster began to be annoyed. He said she cackled so much and so loudly that folks couldn't hear him crow."

"And so the old gray rooster and all the hens who were tired of hearing her cackling so much joined together and drove her out of the farmyard."

"And she went and roosted on the farmer's nice front porch which that very day the farmer had painted with gray paint."

"And when the farmer's wife saw her roosting there she just called the farmer and said she wouldn't be bothered with that stily old hen any more."

"So Mrs. Biddy did go into the pot, and nobody missed her at all."

Where She Drew the Line.

Mr. Birrell's anticipation that, owing to the bligness of heaven, it will not be inevitable that we shall knock up against our acquaintances there may have been suggested by one of Dean Ramsay's best Scottish stories. It should be mentioned that at Hawick the scene of the anecdote, the people used to wear wooden clogs, which made a clanking noise on the pavement. As an old woman lay dying some friend said to her, "Weel, Jeeny, ye are gair to heeven, an' zin you should see our folk ye can tell them that we're a weel."

"Weel," said Jeeny, cautiously, "zin I should see them I's tell them, but you manna expect that I am to gang clank-clanking through heeven looking for your folk."—London Tatler.

Herbert Spencer and the Sea.

To illustrate the advantages the modern child enjoys in seeing so much more of the world than children of earlier generations did, Herbert Spencer mentions that he had never seen the sea until after he was twenty-one. This is the more remarkable, because his father always spent his summer vacation at the seaside, rambling along the coast from one place to another. But the son never went with the father until he was a man. One result is that we have a first impression of the sea by a self-studying adult. It produced in him "a mixture of joy and awe—the awe resulting from the manifestation of size and power and the joy from the sense of freedom given by limitless expanse."

Chinese Blacksmiths.

The Chinese blacksmith thinks a great deal of his anatomy when shoeing horses, which are not numerous in China. He is so skittish in doing a job of shoeing and so dubious about handling the hoofs of the animal that when shoeing is required, the horse is strung up with ropes in such a manner as to prevent kicking. No exceptions are made, even though the horse be a scrawny cart plug of advanced age.

MURPHY WILL BE WITNESS IN THE TAMMANY CASE

(Associated Press Telegram)
New York, Oct. 31.—Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, was among the witnesses cited to appear at the so-called John Doe proceedings into the charges of corruption against Tammany made by John Hennessy in recent speeches in behalf of the Fusion ticket in the mayoralty campaign. The hearing set for late this afternoon before Chief Magistrate McAdoo, concerns mainly the allegations as to campaign contributions. "Every person whose name has been mentioned by Mr. Hennessy," said the district attorney today, "is apt to be called. Mr. Hennessy's little black book will also be put in evidence."
Hennessy, it is understood has given the district attorney a list of about 50 names. Among them it was said, were those of Arthur A. McLean, treasurer of the Democratic state committee and a prominent New York hotel keeper. They will be asked about contributions which Hennessy says were made for campaign purposes, but never officially reported.
A statement was expected late today from Stephen J. Stillwell, the convict state senator in Sing Sing, excerpts from whose alleged confession have been bandied about during the campaign. In a statement issued late last night he said he had never made charges against Murphy and he added that this evening he would issue a sworn statement as to just what occurred when he held conferences with Hennessy and others.
"I have no confession to make involving any man or mer in public office," he insisted.

IF BACKACHE OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take a glass of Salts to flush out kidneys—Drink plenty water.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated, and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.
Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts: take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.
Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

YOUTHFUL GIRL CAPTURES TRIP TO WASHINGTON

(Associated Press Telegram)
Columbus, Oct. 31.—A seventeen-year-old girl, Miss Susan A. Everett, Hubbard, Trumbull county, is the second best youthful apple grower in Ohio. Judges in the boys' and girls' apple growing contest decided this today and as a result Miss Everett will be one of six to accompany the party of more than 1000 Ohio corn boys and 300 girls to Washington the first week in December.
Miss Everett has worked in the orchard with her father for a number of years and knows more about fruit growing than the average farmer, according to Norman E. Shaw, chief of the nursery and orchard division of the state agricultural department. She attends high school and has spent much of her spare time pruning, spraying and carefully inspecting her apple trees since last spring.

Yes, It's Snow.

Newark people again had the fact emphasized that winter is approaching. There was a slight flurry of snow shortly after noon. Of course it wasn't sufficient to cover the ground but it was snow just the same.

NEW PRESIDENT OF CHINA WILL BE A CHRISTIAN

BROWER RIDES TO LAST MILE IN ALASKA

(Associated Press Telegram) Washington, Oct. 31.—A bid for carrying the mails three thousand miles in the depth of an Arctic winter, over the mountains of northern Alaska when the snow lies so deep there scarcely is a bottom was received today by the post office department. The bid came from Charles D. Brower of Point Barrow, Alaska, the most northern postoffice on the continent and a close rival for northern honors with any in the world.

Brower wants to carry the mail from Point Barrow to Kotzebue Sound, 500 miles southward. The man who gets the contract must make three round trips each winter when the seas are frozen and transportation by dogs and sled overland alone is possible in that region.

Brower's letter was more than two months in getting to Washington from Point Barrow. Brower has lived in the Arctic 30 years and is the only white man who inhabits that far northern community. He is employed by an American fur company.

TWO MEN BURNED TO DEATH.

Mattoon, Ill., Oct. 31.—Clarence Altes and Charles Johnson, advertising men and linotype operator, respectively, on a Mattoon newspaper were burned to death when fire destroyed a boarding house in which they were asleep. They evidently were overcome by smoke before the fire reached their room.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Don't stay gray! Nobody can tell when you darken gray, faded hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By adding a few drops more for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant. Agents Hall's Drug Store.

MOTHER! NO USE TAKING CHANCES

Look at child's tongue! When cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs."

If your little one's tongue is coated, it is a sure sign the stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When your child is cross, peevish, listless, does not sleep, eat or act naturally, if breath is bad, stomach sour, system full of cold, throat sore, or if feverish, give a teaspoonful of California Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Sick children need not be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't be fooled!

SEARCH REVEALS "GETAWAY" TOOLS ON PRISONERS

Marion, Oct. 31.—Following up the near-jail-delivery of Wednesday night, Sheriff Francis yesterday put the prisoners under strictest guard and made a search of the jail, unearthing saws, keys, and many other articles, all of which had been cleverly fashioned by the prisoners. All of the 16 prisoners, held on serious charges, are believed to have been implicated in the attempt to escape.

Over 6,000,000 women's hats and bonnets were imported from the British Isles during the first six months of this year.

WILL COMPLETE ARGUMENTS IN THE DYNAMITE TRIALS

Associated Press Telegram.
Chicago, Oct. 24.—When the United States circuit court of appeals opened today it was expected that argument on the appeal of the thirty labor union officials convicted in the dynamite conspiracy at Indianapolis, would be completed before the end of the day.

Just before the close of the hearing yesterday Judge Baker, after stating from the bench that it had been amply shown that many laws for the protection of life and property had been violated. He said he would ask the government to offer proof that the federal government had not reached beyond its jurisdiction and had punished the defendants for crimes punishable by various states.

United States District Attorney Charles W. Miller of Indianapolis resumed his argument, said such proof would be given.

DENISON COACH BUSY MAN WITH VARSITY BOYS

Coach Livingston has been devoting most of his time this week developing a new set of ends. This position was the chief weakness in the Miami game, and time after time the down state team circled the ends for long gains. Although the Miami team formed a strong interference for their end runs they should not have gained with the regularity they did if Denison's ends had shown even mediocre ability. The ends permitted the runner to get around them, instead of turning him in where the tackle or the fullback could bring him to the ground. It is hoped this department will show an improvement in the game with Ohio at Athens Saturday.

Matthews, who has been playing right half, has been shifted to the left flank and will undoubtedly strengthen that position greatly. He is fast and a hard tackler. He has been showing up to advantage in practice this week and generally succeeds in turning his man in, and very seldom does a runner get around him for a gain. Several new men are being tried on the right flank. Sellers, who has been subbing at fullback, is being tried and shows up fairly well on the defensive, but is weak on the offense, although he is somewhat hindered because of not knowing the signals. Thiele played right end last Saturday, but has not been playing up to the standard this week and may be shifted to right guard; he is heavy and will be a help to the line on both defense and offense.

Williams came out to try for right half Monday. He was Rupp's understudy last year and will be a valuable addition to the team. He has been showing his old skill in practice in plunging the line and his tackling ability will help on defensive work. He tackles low and his man rarely gets away.

The quarterbacks are being scored heavily by Livingston for their lack of generalship in the Miami contest. The best plays the team had were not played Saturday and plays that were made did not show any judgment whatever. When a gain was made on a play instead of trying it again it would seem to drop from the mind of the quarter and plays would be tried time and again which failed to gain any ground. Live is paying special attention to his generals and it is hoped they will show a marked improvement Saturday.

The hardest game of the conference is expected when Denison goes to Cincinnati on November 5 to meet the University of Cincinnati. The team is looking forward to this game with interest and if they do not get together and ginger up they will undoubtedly meet defeat. Livingston made a personal appeal to the men Wednesday evening to come out with more fight and determination. The team seems to be bothered by last week's defeat and it is hoped they will pick up and run away with Ohio University Saturday.

PREMONITION OF VIOLENT DEATH SHOWN IN WILL

Associated Press Telegram.
Washington, Oct. 23.—Possessed of a premonition that she would meet a violent death, Mrs. Sophie Kemp Brace of this city, who was killed in an automobile accident near LaPorte, Ind., a few days ago, disclosed this fear in her will, which was offered for probate today. In the document Mrs. Brace left everything to her husband, William D. Brace, with the provision, however, "that should by any accident my husband and I die by common accident, or at about the same time," the property bequeathed should go to members of her own family.

Mrs. Brace was visiting friends in Indiana when she met her death. Two women with her at the time of the accident were instantly killed and she lived only a few hours.

MARS GIVES KILBANE MIGHTY HARD BATTLE

Cincinnati, Oct. 23.—Johnny Kilbane, leather-weight champion of the world, met the surprise of his life when he went on with Knockout Mars of this city for a ten round bout here last night. Kilbane knocked out his youthful antagonist in the seventh round, but went to the mat himself in the second round and had his hands full in every round thereafter.

Kilbane bled freely from the nose and mouth. Mars was also badly battered up. Kilbane weighed about 125, refusing to give his exact weight. Mars made the required limit of 122.

In the first round the men felt each other out, and nothing much was done. In the second round real fighting began when Mars landed on Kilbane's nose for a clean knockdown. Kilbane immediately jumped to his feet, rushed at Mars and knocked him down. Mars taking the count of nine.

Thereafter the men rushed each other fiercely and Kilbane's science stood him in good stead, he forcing Mars to swing wildest many times. Honors were practically on even terms until the middle of the seventh, when Mars, in making a rush, ran into a straight right to the jaw, went down and was completely out. Mars is a young fellow who has risen from the preliminary boxing stage to the present bout within a year, he having secured a decision in every fight but the one last night.

Good Bowels Are An Aid to Growth

Growing Children Need a Mild Laxative to Foster Regular Bowel Movement.

MARIE DEY.

As a child grows older it requires more and more personal attention from the mother, and as the functions of the bowels are of the utmost importance to health, great attention should be paid to them.

Diet is of great importance, and the mother should watch the effect of certain foods. A food will constipate one and not another, and so we have a healthy food like eggs causing biliousness to thousands, and a wholesome fruit like bananas constipating many. It is also to be considered that the child is growing, and great changes are taking place in the young man or young woman. The system has not yet settled itself to its later routine.

A very valuable remedy at this stage, and one which every growing boy and girl should be given often or occasionally, according to the individual circumstances, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This is a laxative and tonic combined, so mild that it is given to little babies, and yet equally effective in the most robust constitution. At the first sign of a tendency to constipation give a small dose of Syrup Pepsin at night on retiring, and prompt action will follow in the morning. It not only acts on the stomach and bowels but its tonic properties build up and strengthen the system generally, which is an opinion shared by Mr. John Dey, of Bloomfield, N. J. He has a large family and at ages where

The growth and development must be watched. Little Marie has thrived especially well on Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Mr. Dey considers it the right laxative for young and old and has found none better for young children.

The use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will teach you to avoid cathartics, salts and pills as they are too harsh for the majority and their effect is only temporary. Syrup Pepsin brings permanent results, and it can be conveniently obtained of any nearby druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 419 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

NEW ZEALAND STRIKE CAUSES FOOD SHORTAGE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Wellington, N. Z., Oct. 31.—A shortage of food and fuel with its accompanying privations for the poorer classes, is commencing to be felt throughout New Zealand as a result of a general strike of coal miners and dockers.

Work has ceased in most trades in every portion of New Zealand. In Wellington and Auckland, the two principal cities, continued rioting has brought about the landing of blue-jackets from British warships to assist in preserving order. The blue-jackets are assigned primarily to protect the men engaged in loading fruit on vessels in the docks and see that passengers are allowed to embark or land from steamers without molestation.

The struggle which has led to this serious state of affairs is a trial of strength between the employers and the Federation of Labor.

The latter organization is not registered under the provisions of the compulsory arbitration and conciliation act passed in 1902, by the terms of which any persons inciting workmen to strike or any employers ordering a lockout without first going to arbitration are liable to severe penalties.

The labor upheaval began with a strike of shipwrights several weeks ago. The men demanded higher wages, improved working conditions, and recognition of their union. The dockers and miners shortly afterward laid down their tools in sympathy, and other trades followed their example until a large proportion of the original labor of the dominion has ceased work.

THE FORWARD-LOOKING WOMAN versus THE FIRESIDE WOMAN By Barbara Boyd

Hallowe'en Parties of the Future

"I wonder if Hallowe'en parties of the future will be any different from those of today," mused the Forward-looking Woman.

"I don't believe they will," replied the Fireside Woman. "Young folks like Hallowe'en fun of the same old brand. Even now, you can't get them to substitute anything new for the old, old tricks. They would rather bob for apples and look in mirrors and do all those old stunts than the most ingenious new things that could be devised. I do not believe that peering into the future in this way will ever lose its fascination."

"Trying to discover the future never will lose its hold upon folks, old or young, I guess," agreed the Forward-looking Woman, "that is, until people get the understanding that their future is assured and that it is all good. Then they will gladly wait to let it develop, just for the joy of its surprise."

"Do you believe that time will ever come?" interrupted the Fireside Woman.

"Yes, I do. But that is another story. What I was thinking of is regard to Hallowe'en parties, was, that probably there will soon be a different future to peer into, and so perhaps different ways of peering into it."

"I doubt it," protested the Fireside Woman. "As I have said, I don't believe you will get young folks to give up their old-time Hallowe'en tricks."

"They'll be the same, only different," laughed the Forward-looking Woman. "For instance, nearly every girl takes a glimpse at the future with the one idea of seeing her matrimonial prospects. I am not decrying matrimony; but I do not believe it will have as prominent a place in the calculations of the girl of the future, as it does in those of the women of today. Marriage is a beautiful institution, but it is not a state for everybody indiscriminately. Some women are fitted for it, and some are not. And I think the girl of the future will range many other things along side of matrimony, and study them all impartially and without bias or influence. She won't go into marriage because it is the chief thing she can do, or because the weight of prejudice and tradition bends her that way. She will choose it only because she prefers it, and knows she is fitted for it. And then we shall have much better and happier marriages."

"That is quite true," agreed the Fireside Woman. "Lots of women marry now because they consider it more creditable to be married than single, or because they want a home, or for some such reason."

"In the future that sort of thing will be cut out, I am thinking. And I am wondering, too, if in the future, women won't do the proposing instead of men. And that will make some difference in the Hallowe'en parties. Men will be the ones, then, to try to divine what fair damsel will do them the honor to seek them."

"Never," said the Fireside Woman firmly. "I do not think that day will ever come."

"I am not so sure about it," returned the Forward-looking Woman. "It's logical. And we are getting to be a terribly logical people. The way such things are arranged now is out of all reason. Suppose a girl wants to marry, and most girls do,—just consider for a minute how she is situated. If she has any sense whatever, she knows the work that lies ahead of her as a home-maker and mother requires preparation. So perhaps she prepares,—studies domestic science and child-training and all that, which is the only sensible thing for her to do. But when she is fully ready to manage her end of affairs skillfully, she must sit above and hold her hands, and wait for somebody to ask her to fill the position she has prepared for. And perhaps nobody ever asks her. And all her preparation goes for naught. Is it any wonder girls know no more than they do about housekeeping and the care of children? On the other hand, suppose a girl really wants to study for some profession or occupation. She knows she may have to throw all her work away to marry, and so it sort of takes the ambition out of her for doing it. Looking at the matrimonial proposition from the woman's side, the present arrangement seems to me to be all wrong. For a woman, it is a sort of haphazard proposition that either upsets all her plans of life, or prevents her from making any."

"Maybe things will be so arranged after a while that getting married will make no more difference to a woman than it does to a man."

"Maybe," replied the Forward-looking Woman. "Things are getting brighter for women every day. Nearly every phase of woman's life is being studied and bettered, and this, the most vital of all, should be the one to receive the most attention and be made the best of all."

Last Night's Play.

The famous Broadway play was given at the Auditorium last evening before a large and enthusiastic audience. The play, which was given before the international congress on school hygiene, has been the subject of much discussion and dissection by critics and audiences in many of the largest cities of the East. Those who witnessed last evening's performance were not able to find a single fault with the play, and the success of the play was a triumph for the author, who has been a pioneer in the field of school hygiene.

Orpheum Theatre.

It is Anderson, the leader of the modern theatre, who is the subject of the play, which is the story of his life and his work. The play is a modern mystery, and it is a play that is full of interest and excitement. The play is a play that is full of interest and excitement. Tortured by burning, itching eczema, with doctors unable to cure him, this old soldier won a good victory and conquered his trouble with a remarkable remedy—Zemo. Read his letter.

"I Believe Zemo to Be the Greatest Discovery of the Age."

"E. W. Rose Medicine Co., Chicago, Ill."

Gentlemen:—In 1908, eczema appeared on my back and arms. I was treated in hospital and by the best doctors every day but did not get well. In 1911 it appeared on head, face and hands—burning and itching. I tried everything but got no relief and was very weak.

Two months ago I got a bottle of Zemo. Eczema has disappeared and my hands begin to look as new. I believe Zemo to be the greatest discovery of the age. More power to Zemo. E. W. Rose, Wm. McKinley Post, 411 N. Chicago.

You can free yourself of this burning, itching, sleep destroying eczema—just as this grizzled veteran did. Inquired for any skin eruptions, boils, blotches and other troubles. Your druggist will sell you a 25c bottle of Zemo and will guarantee it, or it will be sent direct on receipt of price by E. W. Rose Medicine Co., 211 N. Chicago, Mo.

Shirts being worn in each of the two days mentioned. The "Truth" is the play for Monday afternoon and "The Gamblers" for Monday evening.

If the ladies have their lining on Monday, certainly the men have a good entertainment for Tuesday, when "The Belle of Richmond" is the afternoon offering and "Graustark" for the night. The performance returns with a read at the evening performance, so all who are interested in the outcome of the coal contests and the subway bond issue will be able to know how things come out while attending "Graustark." This is a different play from "Beverly of Graustark" which Nancy played here two seasons ago, but is a better play by the same author.

Seats are now selling for the entire engagement. The number of ladies tickets is limited and already there is a large sale of these feminine courtships.

First Things

The first white men to visit San Francisco Bay were members of the expedition of Portola, a Spanish adventurer who became the first governor of California. Portola himself was not a member of the party which, 144 years ago today, gazed down upon a bay and the surrounding shores which were later to become the site of the populous cities of San Francisco and Oakland. The names of the men who first beheld the bay of San Francisco are not recorded, but the honor of discovery probably belongs to Father Juan "Papa" and Sergeant Ortega. On the morning of October 21, 1769, they ascended a hill, and, says Crespi: "As soon as we had arrived on the summit we came in sight of a large bay, formed by a promontory of land which extends into the sea and resembles an island." The first address that the soldiers in the party saw beautiful plains, studded with groves, and the smoke coming up in all parts but no doubt that his locality was thickly inhabited. Gaspar de Portola, captain of dragoons and governor of the California, probably never saw the bay, but his name is perpetuated as the discoverer by the annual Portola festival in San Francisco. Sir Francis Drake came near discovering the bay in 1579, when he landed at a point 30 miles to the north-west.

Bede House Feasts

At Fosdyke, a tiny village in England, there is held every year a most quaint dinner known as the Bede house feast. Some gentlemen, many years back left a sum of money with which half a dozen Bede houses were to be built, and once a year he directed that the occupants were to have a feast. Every year the six old ladies and the six old gentlemen meet the trustees and have dinner. Some of the trustees are county councillors and the like, but, according to the terms of the will, they have to serve the old people first and make them comfortable. The guests always sit in the same order as the number of their houses, and the menu must include a real pie with plums in it.

NEW CORPORATION TO SPREAD GOSPEL OF "TALOSOPHY"

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Columbus, Oct. 21.—What is "talosophy"? Whatever it is, it is worth teaching to humanity, according to "The Association League of the United States," which was incorporated here today, for the avowed purpose of instructing people of the country in this study. The league's headquarters are in Cleveland. Four men and two women are the incorporators.

This is the definition of talosophy, given by the incorporators: "The art of making happiness epidemic." Also, it is this "organized and specialized appreciation." Incidentally it is explained in this manner: "Talosophy is unselfishness made practical and easy of accomplishment. It is the creation of humanitarian pulse and the transforming of the same into kindly acts."

"Talosophy is the transmitting of courtesy into happiness and prosperity. It is the scientific method and rule of action by which human beings are induced to show this appreciation of one another which alone can end wars, harmonize humanity and create and sustain a civilization worthy of the name."

The incorporators are William Vernon Backus, Josephine C. Delacue, Dr. Pauline Barton-Peete, W. F. Rawlings, Ernest C. Schwan, and Allan M. Leach.

ASKS DOCTORS TO PRESCRIBE RHEUMA

Agent Greenburg Shows Faith in One Rheumatic Remedy After Six Years' Suffering.

"3839 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, Ill., March 17, 1913.—For six years, on and off, just as the weather would change, I have suffered agony from Rheumatism, the pains in my big toe, left foot, knees, hips and groins being almost unbearable. At such times I hardly dared take a step for fear of another attack. I spent many dollars and became thoroughly disgusted with so-called Rheumatic remedies, until I tried RHEUMA. I was buying some liniment when your Peoria, Ill., agents recommended your remedy. I have since asked physicians to prescribe RHEUMA for Rheumatism. The train crews on the Rock Island Railroad, who saw me limping along using a cane, will verify my statements. Yours most sincerely, J. K. Greenburg, News Agent, Rock Island Railroad."

Anybody can afford to pay 50 cents to get rid of terrible Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout, Lumbago, and that's all RHEUMA costs at Evans' Drug Store and they say it does not do all that is claimed for it, money back.

RHEUMA costs very little, but it is one of the best remedies you can find to drive Rheumatic poisons from the system and bring back perfect health.

Stopped Night Sweats and Banished Cough

If you are suffering with a continued cough, cold or lung trouble which does not yield to any treatment, it might be of the greatest value to you to investigate what Eckman's Alternative, a medicine for the Throat and Lungs, has accomplished for many similar sufferers. Many who have investigated and used it have voluntarily declared that it was the means of saving their lives. Read this case—
"Gentlemen: For four years I was troubled with a cough, which gradually became worse. I had night sweats and pains in my chest. I was using my appetite and had become so thin and weak I could not attend to my household duties. A physician prescribed me a course of Lung Promote. Not being satisfied, I was examined by the physicians of the Poly clinic Hospital. They also confirmed my trouble, and I was ordered away for treatment. My nephew would not allow me to go until I had tried Eckman's Alternative. Before I had taken the medicine three weeks I had marked relief, night sweats ceased, pains in the chest vanished, much better sleep and eating left me, and I commenced getting well. My health became normal. I am in excellent health now, and have been for twelve years."
(Signed) MRS. MARY WASSON, 1722 S. 17th St., Philadelphia.
Eckman's Alternative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious for severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Strabismus, croup, and in unobedient the system contains no narcotic poisons, or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries, and write to Eckman Laboratories, Philadelphia, Pa. for booklet.

decorations. Lighted pumpkins were placed forth from every available corner. The ghosts were then shown to the old "haunted barn" where they were compelled to unmask. Many games were indulged in. The Misses Grace Varner, Ada Fletcher and Mary Englander were the prize winners. Found in the corn shocks was a "fortune pie" which furnished much amusement.

A two course supper was served. The table decorations were a basket of yellow chrysanthemums and tiny candle holders with yellow candles. While the second course was being served Miss Ada Fletcher was the first to find concealed in a lady finger bearing the announcement of Nellie R. Baker to Elmer M. Edwards for December, 1914.

Miss Baker is the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Baker of Seventh street, while Mr. Edwards is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Edwards of South Williams street. After a shower of congratulations upon the bride-to-be the guests departed for their various homes.

Miss Bessie Kear entertained a number of friends with a dinner party last evening at her home in Granville street.

Mrs. Richard Kear was hostess to the Proctor club, Thursday afternoon at her home in Granville street. Following the literary program a six o'clock dinner was served. Decorations pertaining to Halloween were used and in the dining room the table was centered with yellow chrysanthemums and small jack-o'-lanterns were given as favors. The room was lighted by yellow shaded candles.

Guests of the club were Mesdames John McKenna, Rose Fitzgerald, Patrick Fitzpatrick, Hugh McKenna, Paul Kear, and Miss May McDonald.

Columbus, Oct. 31.—Lafollette, former treasurer of Cuyahoga county, who was paroled from the penitentiary four months ago, may have to return and serve the remainder of his term, if he can be found. He is said to have left the state in violation of the terms of his parole. Lafollette was serving a term for embezzlement.

HAVE COLOR IN YOUR CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

If you want a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box.

Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.

Chairman of Interstate Commerce Commission Would Raise Rates

Chairman E. E. Clark of the Interstate Commerce Commission shocked some and surprised other auditors when he told the twenty-fifth annual convention of the National Association of Railway Commissioners in Washington that he believed railroad rates must be advanced.

He insisted that the railroads need millions of dollars for betterment, and this must come from increased earnings which, of course, can be obtained only by an increase in rates. It did not make any difference if the bad financial condition of railroads was due to reckless financing, the practical question before the country, he said, was the necessity of improvement, and that could only be made when the roads earned more money.

There is no get-rich-quick scheme equal to that of a poor girl marrying a rich man.

THE WORLD IS HIS PARISH

(Leslie Claypool in Kansas City Post)
"So many Gods, so many creeds, so many paths that lead and wind. When just the art of being kind, is all this sad world needs."

Pastor Russell is a kindly, creedless shepherd, who looks about the world doing good and mending his flock, and incidentally his own business.

This good shepherd was in Kansas City Sunday, ministering to the soul wants of thousands. There, in a short time he will go to London, the metropolis of the world to minister to the needs of the British in the British Isles. A short time ago he was in China, where the little yellow man loved him and followed him about the streets. And it makes no difference where Pastor Russell goes, it's all the same. He says that men seeking the truth and the light are all alike, regardless of their color, their race, or their language.

I have heard of Pastor Russell of Brooklyn Tabernacle many times, and I have read his sermons; but I had always thought of him just as an ordinary, good, well-groomed minister. It had never occurred to me he was any different from thousands of other preachers who wore frock coats and white ties. This was because I had never seen him, or heard him talk.

Last Sunday morning I walked into the Hotel Baltimore, in Kansas City, and talked with Pastor Russell for an hour. It is my custom when entering a large hotel to inquire for a guest to go at once to the room clerk, but this was not necessary this time, for men were standing in groups in the lobby, looking in one direction. I heard such remarks as: "Isn't he a fine looking gentleman?" One man said: "I ain't much on religion, but I'll bet that is one preacher I would like."

So I walked right over to Pastor Russell and introduced myself. Although I do not hobnob with the clergy I did not feel ill at ease for a moment. Here was a man who had no creed. He belonged to no denomination. He said he had nothing against any church, and wished them all well, but that he preferred to belong to the same church that Jesus of Nazareth belonged to. Asked what church that was, he said: "None that exists today."

We talked about life, Pastor Russell and I. And it is a good subject. Here was a teacher, a prophet of God, whose books have reached a circulation of 9,000,000, and have been printed in nineteen different languages, including Chinese, and whose parish is the world, who held the same views of life that I, a man of the world, did. It was a revelation.

Here is what Pastor Russell believes in substance: There is a God, father of all, who is Life. Religion, creeds, denominations are interpretations of God's will. All of the men have much good and some bad in them.

The Bible is the world's greatest book, and true. The world can't do without it, and it will help everybody who studies it. Our civilization is founded upon it, and let its enemies construct a better civilization than we have, if they can.

It is the business and privilege of all who believe in the Bible to work together, to deal justly, and above all to be kind.

It is the belief of Pastor Russell, and the thousands of members of the International Bible Student's Association, of which he is president, that some day all creeds will unite into one band, for the purpose of making the world better. And making the world better ought to be the desire of every honest man.

You might look the world over and not find so good a man as Pastor Russell for the position he holds. He is 61 years old. Young enough to see the joy in life, and old enough to have sound judgment. His face radiates with kindness, and proves his life has been well spent. There are no traces of dissipation. His soft white flowing beard is not the beard of a charlatan, of which we see so many, but the beard of a patriarch, a father. It gives you confidence. There is not a man who does not believe Pastor Russell is sincere.

And so he goes about the world making people glad. He did not ask me what church I belonged to. He did not care, and he is the same with everybody. And I left the hotel feeling that if the Scriptures did nothing else, they were worth while just because they produced this good shepherd from Brooklyn. As I left him, he gripped my hand warmly, and slapping me on the back said: "God bless you, young man; be fair and kind and give the Lord a square deal and you won't have much trouble."

At the auditorium, where Pastor Russell spoke Sunday afternoon, there was no ranting, and no collection was taken. Neither Pastor Russell nor his flock are out after the money. If it is your good fortune ever to meet with this man from Long Island, you will think, I did, that the man who deals all the good men are dead, has something wrong with him.

What is the exact number of cubic feet in one ton of coal?
A ton of hard coal contains on the average about thirty-five cubic feet. Of course these figures vary slightly according to the bulkiness of a particular size of coal, the egg coal, for instance, occupying more space than the pea coal.

Is it true that an iceboat actually sails faster than the wind?
It is paradoxical that a contrivance driven by the wind can go faster than the wind that drives it, but such is the case with the ice yacht. It sails faster than the wind when sailing at a sharp angle to it. The wind strikes the sails slantwise, and no matter how fast the boat goes its speed does not diminish the pressure on the sail. The only limit to the speed is the friction engendered by wind on the sail and ice on the runners. When, on the other course, the boat sails directly before the wind she is like a balloon and drifts along at about the speed of the wind itself.

Where did President Garfield die?
President Garfield died in the cottage of C. J. Franklin at Elberon, N. J., near Long Branch, where he was taken in the summer of 1891 following his shooting.

What is a good soldering flux for the amateur to use—i. e., something that will cause the solder to unite with the metal operated upon?
The professional plumber has several soldering fluxes that should work for the amateur. Of these hydrochloric acid with a little zinc added to form a chloride is used chiefly in soft soldering. Powdered rosin sprinkled on the surface of the metal serves as a good flux, and tallow is sometimes used for the same purpose. If you have copper to mend you should use either borax or sal ammoniac before applying the solder.

What is the meaning of the initiative as applied to politics?
By the initiative a proposed law may be submitted directly to the people on petition from a certain number of voters.

Must a president of the United States be born of American born parents or is it sufficient if his parents are naturalized Americans?
To be president he must have been born in the United States and be an American citizen. It does not matter whether his parents are American born.

Was General A. E. Burnside of civil war fame ever governor of Rhode Island?
He was governor from 1875 to 1881. He was born in Liberty, Union county, Ind.

Why are tree branches often broken by lightning?
The lightning is so great that the wood, being an imperfect conductor, is broken by the shock before the current can pass on from the bough.

Who is the author of the words, "These are the times that try men's souls?"
The words were written by Thomas Paine in his book, "The American Crisis," better known perhaps as "The Crisis." It was written during the early years of the war of the Revolution.

Did the constitution of the United States prior to the civil war declare or assert all states in the Union to be free and independent—if not in so many words, at least in substance?
No provision in the constitution or elsewhere in the law was ever made previous to the civil war explicitly forbidding any state to dissolve its bond with the Union. The action of Jackson in the nullification times, however, being approved, set an administrative if not a legal precedent against secession, which was more than an abstract proposition.

What are the colors of the state railways in Germany?
Yellow for first class, green for second class and white for third class.

On what grounds may a person holding a place under the civil service rules be removed?
Under the civil service rules no person holding a position in what is called the classified service, which includes all the department clerkships in Washington, can be removed except for the good of the service and for reasons given in writing, and no person can be appointed to such position unless he has passed a civil service examination with an average of at least 70 per cent.

How many lives were lost each by Union and Confederate sides in the civil war, 1861-65?
A statement of the casualties in the Union army, prepared by the adjutant general's office after the war, gave the killed in battle, 67,655; died of wounds, 43,012; died of disease, 199,729; died of other causes, 40,154; died while prisoners, 20,156; total, 380,606. Another statement, based on official reports, placed the total number of deaths on the Union side from all causes at 954,000 officers and 349,944 men. No complete or authoritative statement of the Confederate losses was ever made.

Quarter Century Ago

(From advocate, Oct. 31, 1888.)
Hon. Allen G. Thurman arrived from Wheeling this afternoon and addressed a large gathering from the court house steps.
The Cleveland and Thurman club of Newark has challenged the Garfield club of Newark to debate the tariff question.
Dr. J. A. Smalley has removed his dental office to E. S. Miller's new building on Taira street.

Fifty Years Ago Today.

Oct. 31.
A plan to connect Paris with the ocean by means of a ship canal was under consideration.
Federal batteries were throwing 1,000 to 1,200 shots against the walls of Fort Sumter every twenty-four hours. The ration famine in the Federal camps besieged at Chattanooga was broken by the arrival of the first supply boat of the famous "Cracker line" on the Tennessee river.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today.

In the London Times libel suit at Edinburgh Captain O'Shea sprung sensational evidence against the plaintiff, Parnell.

Curiosity of an Empress.

Mme. de Hegernann-Lindencrone in her reminiscences, "In the Courts of Memory," relates an amusing experience which took place at one of her visits to the court of Napoleon III.
Her hair was so abundant and so curly that no one would believe her coiffure was natural. The Empress Eugenie asked: "Where can one buy such lovely curls as you have? Are they real or false? You won't mind telling me. Some people have made bets about it. How can we know unless you tell us?" The American visitor replied: "My hair is all my own, your majesty, and if you wish to make sure, I am perfectly willing that you should see for yourself." And "Removing my helmet," says Mme. Lindencrone, "I took out the comb and let my hair down. Every one crowded around me and felt and pulled my hair about until I had to beg for mercy. The emperor, looking on, cried out: 'Bravo, madame!' and, gathering some flowers on the table, handed them to me, saying: 'Your success hangs by a hair, does it not?'"

Nothing to Be Said.

Prospective tenant talking with the janitor standing on the steps of a fat-house on a cross street near an avenue on which there is a trolley line.
Prospective Tenant—Can you hear the cars plainly here?
Janitor—Oh, my, no; you can't hear the cars here at—
But at this moment there came rumbling, grinding down the avenue at forty miles an hour a big trolley car that passed this street with a roar that would have made a double jointed earthquake falling down a steep and rocky mountain canyon sound like somebody in the distance playing a piccolo.
The prospective tenant looked at the janitor for just one moment, sadly and reproachfully, and then she turned and went away.
And the janitor? Well, the janitor just let her go without another word, for he realized that this was a case in which there was nothing further to say.—New York Sun.

Feeble Minded Children.

Economic incompetence often goes by the name of laziness, thriftlessness, shiftlessness. In every village we find some of this "worthless sort," and they usually get scant sympathy and still scantier interpretation. Be careful of your own diagnosis of these cases, reader, or you may make the mistake of the ignorant parent who actually beats a feeble minded child, thinking the child will not obey, when, as pure matter of fact, the child cannot obey. There may be a kind of laziness which will respond to moral suasion, but there is another important kind which is due to incurable deficiency of will. Feeble mindedness is a blight not only affects the intellect, but may also weaken the instincts which are at the basis, alike, of play, work and thrift.—American Magazine.

Mark Twain's Retort.

At a hotel in Jericho was an American who had accompanied Mark Twain on his camping trip through the Holy Land.
"No, sir," said he in the course of the evening's conversation, "I cannot recall a single instance when the humorist was caught napping. Once we thought we had him sure. Mr. Twain came late to the dinner table, when we had sat down, and before he appeared we had invented a clever trap.
"He was still several courses behind when the rest of us were ready for salad, but every one stopped eating until Mr. Twain caught up. He had started entirely on a crisp leaf of lettuce before he noticed that no one else was eating. He paused questioningly. That was our opportunity.
"Now, Mr. Twain, some one asked, 'why are you like Nebuchadnezzar?' expecting that the answer would imply that it was because he was eating grass like an ox. Instead, and without an instant's hesitation, came the retort:
"Because I am feeding with the brutes."—Pearson's Weekly.

The Finding of Omar.
It was the late Mr. Bernard Quinlan's father who published "Omar," and, finding that the thing didn't sell, he relegated it to the penny box. Its subsequent success was due to a fortunate accident. Two friends of Rosetti came across the poem and thought it worth reading. Rosetti read it and recommended it to Swinburne. What followed Swinburne has himself told. "Having read it," he writes, "Rosetti and I invested upward of sixpence apiece—or possibly threepence; I would not wish to exaggerate our extravagance—in copies at that not exorbitant price. Next day we thought we might get some more for pennies among our friends, but the man at the stall asked two-pence! Rosetti expostulated with him in terms of such humorously indignant remonstrance as none but he could ever have commanded. We took a few and left him. In a week or two, if I am not much mistaken, the remaining copies were sold at a guinea. I have since * * * seen copies offered for still more absurd prices. I kept my pennyworth (the tidest of the lot) and have it still."—London Chronicle.

Twelfth Century Football.
In the twelfth century football in England was a game for the streets. The chronicler of that period tells how after dinner the city youths "addressed themselves to football," and how the scholars of each school and the apprentices of particular trades would each have their peculiar ball. There were spectators, too, in those days—enthusiastic spectators. Fathers would come to watch their sons and "become as youthful as the youngest, their natural heat seeming to be revived at the sight of so much ability."
In later years one recalls a famous ball game played in Hyde park. In 1654, then, "there was a burling of a great ball by fifty Cornish gentlemen on one side and fifty on the other. One party played in red caps, the other in white." And—here the historical value of the contest—Cromwell was a spectator and applauded the "great agility of body" displayed.

Aldine Editions.
The introduction of the sloping Roman letters which are known to everybody as italics was made by Aldus Manutius of Venice in the latter part of the fifteenth century. He was the most famous printer of Italy and perhaps of the world. The books he printed, known as Aldine editions, are much sought after by collectors. His first volume in the new type was a Verall published in 1501 at the price of about 2 shillings of our money. Aldus, in fact, was the pioneer of cheap literature.

The Aldine mark is a dolphin twined about an anchor with the name "Aldus." If any reader, says Mr. J. A. Hill in the Imprint, finds a cartload of old books with this mark in his attic or lumber room, he is duly advised not to use them for lighting the fire. They would probably buy him a good annuity for the solace of his declining years.

How Koreans Advertise.
Although the Korean has stubbornly refused to adopt western ideas, he has always recognized the value of advertisement. When a Korean opens a new shop or has any particular wares he is anxious to dispose of or when a nobleman desires to convey a certain piece of intelligence to the people he seeks the services of the sandwich men. In the Hermit Kingdom, however, these men do not carry boards upon which the desired information is made known to all and sundry, but resort to the medium of picturesque flags, upon which the announcement is inscribed. Anything from one to a dozen flags may be requisitioned, and these are carried through the streets by boys and men, forming a picturesque moving advertisement.—Wide World Magazine.

Not His Fault.
One of the women belonging to the Mothers' club at the settlement house came to excuse herself from the meeting with her face swollen and highly discolored. She was biding it with a shawl, and she explained earnestly: "He wouldn't have done it for anything, not for a hundred dollars. But he wasn't himself, and I said something that crossed him. Then he done it, but he's sorry. I black awful easy, anyway."—Everybody's.

Sunstroke.
Sunstroke is caused by invisible violet rays from the sun and not by heat. The temperature to which stokers on Atlantic liners are exposed is far higher than the heat from the sun in the most tropical countries, yet the men are not affected in the same manner.

Woman's Two Ages.
Joax—Shakespeare told us all about the seven ages of man, but he didn't say anything about the two ages of woman. Hoax—And what are the two ages of woman? Joax—The age she says she is and the age she really is.—Philadelphia Record.

Husband and Wife.
Husband means house bound; wife, weaving one; son is the cleaner; daughter is the milkier; spinster is the unmarried sister of husband or wife, who is the spinner.

Scotland's Grouse Moors.
There are some 3,000 grouse moors in Scotland alone that are regularly let by their owners at an annual rental of about £1,000,000.

Always to thank the worst. I have ever found to be the mark of a mean spirit and a base soul.—Boilingbrooke.

True Philosophy.
A lady was standing on her back porch one bright spring morning. She did not appear happy or contented, and she confided her restlessness to her negro housekeeper. "Oh, I wish I could go away! I do so need a change!"
"Now, chile," said the old negro, "wot you want git way fum? Dis yere beautiful house? Now, wot you want git way fum? Dese yere lubly chilins? Now, wot you want git way fum? You gotta lug yo'self long wherever you go!"—Youth's Companion.

Preserved Hearts.
In Belgium and other countries it has been from time immemorial a custom to preserve the heart of a man renowned for his sanctity, and on the anniversary of the death of its possessor this relic receives a large share of veneration from hundreds of people.

Consolation.
"Whenever I think of the trouble I have keeping one maid I'm glad I'm not rich."
"Why?"
"Just suppose that I had to try to keep three or four of them!"—Detroit Free Press.

Calm Appropriation of Men's Rights
"The way some women just calmly grab a thing a man may have worked hard to get, and which rightfully belongs to him, disgusts me," exclaimed the Forward-looking Woman. "In fact, they plan to grab it. They make preparations beforehand to do so."
"But I thought you believed in women's having men's rights," replied the Fireside Woman.
"A woman's having the same rights as man, and her grabbing what belongs to a man are two different propositions. A woman should have the same rights as a man, but she has no right to dispossess a man of what belongs to him."
"Just what is your special grievance?" asked the Fireside Woman.
"The other day, I was so disgusted with Dolly at a little private exhibition we went to. She was late getting ready, and I tried to hurry her by telling her all the best seats would be gone. 'Oh, don't worry about that,' she replied. 'Some nice man will give us his seat.' And sure enough, when we sailed in late, she in all the splendor of her new suit,—and I will say, she looked wondrously pretty,—several men jumped at once and offered us their seats, and then went back and took the undesirable places that were left. If it hadn't been for making a scene, I would have refused the seat offered me. But under the circumstances, that would have been in bad taste. And so we took the seats,—two of the very nicest there,—though we had no right to them whatever."
"But of course, the men should have given you their seats. If you had your way, there soon would be no politeness and civility left."
"Not a bit of it," retorted the Forward-looking Woman indignantly. "A true gentleman will always be a true gentleman. It's part of his nature, and you couldn't destroy it without destroying him. But what I object to is for a woman deliberately to bank on this, and so get for herself things she has no right to. Dolly could have been early and got her own seat, if she had tried. But she wasn't going to make the effort or put herself out any, because she knew that just being a woman would force a gentleman to relinquish his seat. I daresay some of those men had put themselves out to go early, in order to get a seat to their liking. And I don't believe in a woman's trading upon the fine traits of a man's character to gratify her selfishness. That, my dear, is a very different thing from having the same rights as a man. Rights are a matter of justice. They are as much a man's as a woman's, and as much a woman's as a man's. A man should not be forced to yield them because of sex any more than should a woman."
"But you wouldn't have had Dolly stand all during the performance, would you?" objected the Fireside Woman.
"I wouldn't have her deliberately count upon getting a seat because she is a woman, when by making as much effort to be early as others had done, she could have had as good a seat as they. That, I say, is using womanliness as a weapon to deprive a man of his rights, and I don't believe in it."

Single women in Business.
Why do single women conduct business more successfully than married women?
And, again, why do married women do better in business than widows?
I cannot definitely prove to you that single women do excel married ones in business or that those who have a husband are better business managers than widows. But I have the solemn word—and was ever the word of an English official report anything but solemnity to the 'uth degree?—that such is the fact.
Of 390 women traders who failed in business in London during the last year 155 were widows, 151 married and 81 single. But the average amount of liabilities of the three classes varied greatly. With fewer than twice as many failures the widows had more than three times the debts of the single women. The married women's obligations were two and a half times the ones of those who never knew a husband.

The Wonderful Sulphur Island, Geysers and Magnificent Scenery of This "Scotland Under a Different Sky".

If you were to choose a land for a holiday and at the same time were in search of health and had money and time at your disposal you could select no more delightful country than New Zealand. It is another Yellowstone Park with geysers, mud-holes and all the phenomena of that wonderful region, and just now it is attracting attention because the most remarkable natural sulphur factory in the world has been discovered there.

New Zealand is a queer and beautiful land where winter meets the eye everywhere. Besides being surrounded by the deepest of blue seas the islands are filled with lakes and swift rivers, rowing and sailing are the chief pastimes. Never were there mountain lakes more apt to be ruffled by breezes or streams more rapid. Perhaps because boating is such a favorite occupation this country controls its own trade and the traffic to Australia and the South Sea Islands. The climate, too, is delightful, for it has all the range of latitudes and on a passage from orange groves in the north to fields of oats and rye in the colder southern parts.

Only Thirty Years Old.

Thirty years ago this colony began. Now they export gold, sulphur, coal and wool in large quantities. In fact, wool growing is the chief agricultural industry. New Zealand sheep are noted the world over. Frozen lamb and mutton are large exports, and the business is conducted on scientific principles. So are the large co-operative butter factories and the industry of collecting the resin of the large Kauri pine, of which the markets of Europe use large quantities for glue.

All this goes to show that when you decide to go to New Zealand you will not go to a backward, uncivilized land, but to a country where the labor question has been solved enough to attract the attention of social students and where at least ten large cities are good imitations of the large towns of the British Isles.

On this very account it is somewhat peculiar that the great sulphur factory of White Island, twenty miles off the shore, in the Bay of Plenty, has not been utilized before. Seen from the shore, it looks quiet enough, but a white cloud hangs over it and can be noticed some distance at sea. Even

NEW ZEALAND "THE BRITAIN OF THE SOUTH"

In the brightest weather the cloud never varies, and White Island is flying its white vapor flag. In reality this is steam from hot springs and geysers which boil around the sides of a lake within the crater, for White Island is the crater of a partially submerged volcano, one thousand feet of which are above the sea. The whole island is perpetually making sulphur and because of its hot springs, soft sulphur laden ground and curious formations, it has long been the mecca for curiosity seekers. Every steam jet spouts a certain amount of sulphur, and there are hot springs containing over ninety per cent, in fact superior to the springs of Japan.

A Wonderful Mine.

Commerce has laid hands on this wonderful island and has started one of the strangest mining enterprises ever known. The lake which is filled with boiling sulphur springs has been drained and both the thermal and non-thermal parts of this island of about nine hundred acres are worked. When sulphur is so pure that it can be dipped out of a spring with a bucket it is no wonder that this island has been called "the eighth wonder of the world." To harness a seething and fiery island and make it obey the behests of man is a daring undertaking, and this is the first time that geysers and boiling springs have been utilized for such a purpose. But it is little wonder that man is desirous of utilizing this natural sulphur factory for one spring alone furnishes four tons of ninety per cent, pure sulphur an hour.

This remarkable White Island is really the beginning of the Taupo or volcanic district of New Zealand, which extends under the sea and makes itself known again in the northern part of the North Island of New Zealand. Though this section of the mainland is commonly called the Hot Lakes District, the lagoons are not always hot, and the queer White Island is in many respects a greater wonder than the mainland. Nature has surely emptied her wonderbox on White Island for having been the scene of volcanic activity for so many years its springs, yellow and giving forth precious minerals, arise from an apparently inexhaustible supply. This, too, within a small area. Naturally, this island has been for ages the subject of Maori tradition and many interesting legends cluster around it. The best knowing says that a chief's wife dropped a hot coal in the sea, and from it sprang this interesting volcano, the top of which protrudes today.

Crater Lake

Cutting down One of the Big Trees

Steam Blow Hole which Produces Four Tons of Sulphur an Hour

Magnificent Scenery.

The area of the hot district on the mainland is about six thousand square miles, and in it are volcanoes and many beautiful lakes. Four of the most interesting are Rotorua, Rotoiti, Rotoehu and Roto-ma. They lie in a chain, like pieces of silver strung together. But Taupo is so large and has such deep waters and frowning cliffs that it is better known to the average swimmer. In fact this crater lake surrounded by a rampart of huge cliffs much resembles our own Crater Lake which we have set aside as a National Monument. The glory of Taupo in flood-time is the cascades which make one leap from the top of the cliffs—some over a thousand feet—to the waters below. The Waikato river issues from this and old Maori tradition has it that the crater lake is connected with underground boiling infernal regions by a huge funnel.

Rotorua is the social center of the thermal country and here government has become interested. There are fashionable hotels, public gardens, and all the modern sights of popular hot springs. Within ten miles of Rotorua there are enough hot colored pools, geysers and sulphurous terraces to keep one sightseeing for weeks. New Zealanders have made a study of geysers and tell you they have geysers terrifically large and truly small without number. They know how to make a quiescent geyser boil by applying soap to its cavernous mouth and they also know how to make artificial geysers, one at least being made by inserting a lead pipe in the ground. This has been done as a curiosity and with no attempt at fooling persons into thinking it the genuine article.

The large geysers are beautiful as the huge columns rise, curl back and fall earthward. The sunlight plays on the water and steam and makes quivering rainbows, while the light that never was on land or sea seems to illumine the spouting waters until they slowly sink in seething whirlpools. Tourists come to Rotorua in large numbers to bathe in the acid-sulphur and alkaline sulphur springs. An interesting feature in connection with these springs is that persons without money are cared for at the expense of the government. When one tires of Rotorua he can drive to Taupo to see the wonderful lake or to Waiotapu, where the real infernal domain of the mainland begins. A series of hills surround a valley which is full of springs and sulphurous mud. Further on is the Devil's Trumpet with steam rising in great jets and geysers are galore, sending up clouds of vapor. Some erupt at stated intervals and others are so universal that no accurate computations can be made.

"The Geyser of Sparkling Waters."

Wairarapa the geyser sparkling waters is probably the most wonderful of those of the north island. It erupts every twelve minutes, and one of these spent in preparation, in boiling and seething in the crater just before it showers upward. At first it is a slight indistinct sound, then bubbling and finally water is ejected forth like a great white spray reaching to reach heaven. A short pause and it slowly recedes into the crater. No wonder all this section is called The Devil's Playground, for the minerals in the water make the ground red, white and black, and the whole earth seems a great thermal laboratory. The beautiful walls that surround the geysers and pools are made of the acids which the water and gases create. It is walls like these that on White Island are being utilized for the benefit of many countries.

An Island of Sulphur.

But let no one going to New Zealand be content with seeing White Island and the volcanic region of the north island. The southern island is remarkably picturesque with Alps and Fjords. Great mountain ridges run from north to south, fast rivers thread the valleys and there are deep and wonderful lakes. Best known of all its beauties are the Sounds, which resemble Florida like those of Norway. Properly they should be called Fjords, but the name given by early explorers still clings to them. There are at least fifteen of them winding between cliffs and penetrating into the icy heart of the Alps.

The heights around Milford Sound are the loftiest of any. The Sound itself is a dark green stretch of salt water between cliffs less than a mile apart. In one place only five hundred yards of water separate them. All the Sounds are deep and in Milford the sounding line reaches bottom at nearly 1,300 feet. Cascades, waterfalls and falls come down the high cliffs and some are estimated to be three thousand feet high. But measurement seems futile in these Sounds, they are so grand and beautiful. Means are taken to preserve bird life around them, and the government has set them aside as an insular refuge for all flying animal life.

And he wouldn't be here if B. H. Anderson of Butler, Pa., hadn't bet Roosevelt would win the last election. Anderson isn't a professional "biker" nor a street fakir. He's a newspaper man who made a bet, lost it and had the determination to pay up.

Anderson bet on Teddy with the proviso that if Teddy won, the other party to the bet should lead a bull moose from Portland, Me., to Portland, Ore. Should Woodrow Wilson be elected, Anderson was to depart on a similar trip on Inauguration Day, March 4.

He isn't kidding. He's working his way and he has all the time he wants in which to complete the trip. Leading "Jasper," he walked into Newark Thursday night from Mt. Vernon, and will leave for Columbus Saturday morning.

AUTO DRIVER KILLED MAKING SPEED RECORD

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

London, Oct. 31.—Percy Lambert, holder of many world's automobile speed records, was killed on the Brooklands motor track today while making an effort to break the one hour record.

Lambert was traveling at a speed of over 114 miles an hour when one of the tires burst. The machine somersaulted and then shot over the top of an embankment. The driver was crushed to death beneath the wreckage.

On Monday of this week, Lambert captured the 50-mile world's record, covering the distance in 27 minutes 2.5 seconds. On February 15 on the same track he established a new record for one hour, 103.34 miles. At the same time he made a new 100-mile record of 57 minutes 49.45 seconds.

HALLOWE'EN PRANKS OF A HARMLESS SORT AMUSE YOUNGSTERS

Newark boys and girls are not of a destructive frame of mind. This is the opinion reached by the police authorities since Halloween festivities in this area in several nights ago. Several who have found little to do about the only activities they have been called upon to watch are corn and vegetable throwing and using soap on the windows. None of these pranks is regarded as very serious and in most cases the youngsters were not interested when the police appeared. A report of the police addition to the fact that a child had been seen from his doorway, the police were probably not from some boy's imagination from a soap-pot.

SILVER TAKEN FROM NEGRO UNDER ARREST

Police Chief Sheridan was notified by Pittsburgh officers of the B. and O. police department of the arrest there of Frank Brown, a negro. When searched at police station Brown had 57 pieces of silverware, concealed about his person. The Pittsburgh authorities are making every effort to locate the owner.

Most of the silverware encrusted with the pieces of silverware, one or two of the pieces bear the name "Louise Avers." Reports of numerous thefts of silverware from Newark homes, were on file in Pittsburgh and the description of the robbery was sent to Newark with a view of finding the owner. As far as can be ascertained, none of the silverware came from Newark.

"The Last Word in Social Stationery," describes work done by The Advocate

Vincent, the Little Son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Mac Lean, Said To Be the Richest Boy in America Revelling in the First Joys of Farm Life.

WHEN Mrs. Evelyn Walsh, the only daughter of U. S. Senator Walsh, married Edward R. Mac Lean, only son of John R. Mac Lean, a multimillionaire of Cincinnati and Washington, two of the most colossal fortunes in this country were merged. The issue of this union is Vincent Mac Lean, a chubby boy of four years who, naturally, was at once dubbed the "Billionaire Baby." Vincent bears up under the burden of this awe-inspiring title with surprising fortitude, and it must be said in his favor there is little in the department of the richest youngster in the United States to designate him from other boys of his age and social station. He is an easygoing, rough and tumble, rollicking, happy little chap who goes about the great tenor of his way without a thought of the grave responsibilities that are in store for him.

Just at present Vincent is revelling in the joys of farm life, for with his parents he went early in the spring to the magnificent Black Point estate which his parents leased and which they will occupy until late autumn.

Bill Enters Vincent's Life.

From the start the Mac Leans determined that Vincent should be reared with all the tender care that one of his importance demands, but at the same time both made up their minds that a pampered boy with no sense of self-reliance would not be before him. Vincent's early life developed into a wayward youth, or else into an insufferable snob. So to avoid risk of either of these contingencies they decided that they would back him to Black Point, and even for Southern born men and women, the rearing of their children. All of us who were either born in the South or lived there, know that the majority of children, from earliest infancy, have for their caretakers, or playmates, a little negro boy or girl, usually the children of an old family servant—a servant of the old school, of course. The devotion of these little plectaninians to their little wards is little short of idolatry. They would willingly lay down their lives for their little charges, and this devotion is repaid by the tender regard which the little master or mistress bestows on his black playmate. From here Mac Lean found just such a little playmate. His mother was an old-fashioned negro who had been reared by "White Folks" and her associations were such that her little son must necessarily be free from that consciousness of inferiority which the blacks where their children have been allowed to run wild and grow up in the slums of the big cities. This little boy was adopted by the Mac Leans and he was placed in charge of Vincent. In fact he is Vincent's very own and from the first moment the two were joined, each their hearts were stirred and Vincent and Black Bill, from that day to this, became inseparable and devoted companions.

Of course the little black boy accompanied Vincent to the farm. There a startling surprise awaited each. Mr. Mac Lean had seemingly scoured the country for pairs with which to amuse his little son. He wanted him to take to country life, and every animal one would find on a well regulated farm was at Black Point, but the majority of them in the pasture farm, Vincent's favorite, the Shetland pony is one of the sweetest and gentlest that money could buy, and he went into Vincent's life at the moment he saw it. The pony was saddled and bridled and Vincent, carefully supported by Bill, started forth on his first ride. Later the saddle was removed and the pony was harnessed to a little cart which was exclusively made for Vincent and Bill. Vincent drove for the first time in his young life and the thrills of that ride are still among the most pleasurable of the many he experienced at the farm.

Vincent Gets a Goat.

Long before the novelty of the pony had worn off Vincent awoke one morning to find awaiting him a rare specimen of goat correctly harnessed to a little cart with Bill standing at his head ready for his little master to take his seat, pick up the reins and sail forth for a before-breakfast ride over the smooth roads of the Mac Lean estate. From that moment Vincent was rent by conflicting emotions. He couldn't decide which was the more: to jump on or get on to be sure that neither was slightest he decided to divide his time equally between the two. In a way the goat has the better of the bargain and can steal a march on the pony in the race for their little master's affections. When the pony is unharnessed he is either stalled or turned loose in paddock or was to have chickens he must learn to take care of them, feed them and gather the eggs each day. The hours Vincent and Bill spend in the chicken yard are by no means the least interesting those two while away in the course of the day. Each of the boy's pullets and roosters is named and answers to its name when Vincent arrives at the run. If he is in a far distant part of the grounds and hears the cackle of a hen he knows at once which of his pets has laid an egg and he goes scampering to the hen house to take it proudly to the house.

The Billion Dollar Baby and his PETS

A True Sportsman.

That Vincent is a true son of his father, inheriting many of the sporting proclivities of the elder Mac Lean, is attested by his fondness for game chickens. There are a number of game roosters that strut about his stable yard and Vincent loves nothing better than to see two of these little gladiators square off for a battle to the finish, and the boy stands by until the final flutter of victor or vanquished to see that fair play ruled throughout. Every once in awhile his bulldogs mix it up and Vincent is not in the least afraid to step into the thick of the fray to separate the combatants should he see that the weaker of the two is getting the worst of the conflict. This love of sport is further evidenced by the races arranged by Bill and himself, Vincent on the pony and Bill in the goat cart or vice versa, complete the entrants for some of the stirring finishes that are seen about the farm.

Mother Looks to Future.

In discussing her boy, recently, Mrs. Mac Lean said: "Much has been said and written about Vincent, much of it true and a great deal of it purely fictional. We have but one hope in view, and that to make the boy strong, healthy, clean and wholesome. We want him to be just like any other sturdy, American boy. It matters not whether he will have a fortune when he comes of age or not, for when he reaches man's estate he will have been so trained—if our plans do not miscarry—that he will be perfectly able to start out in life and earn a living, if necessary. Just what his future will be rests with him. Whatever channel his talents lie in those talents will be cultivated and given full scope. Above all things he must be normal. He is not spoiled a bit and we intend to see that he is kept so. We are no different from other parents, I suppose, in that we have fond dreams for the boy's future. We may be more fortunate than some inasmuch as the very best instructors that money can procure will be engaged for the boy's training through the various stages of boyhood. He shall select his own college when he is old enough to take an interest in such things and by that time we believe he will have evinced a lively interest in sports and will elect some field in which we feel sure he will excel. We can't deny that our whole lives are centered in this youngster, and so far he has never given us a moment of anxiety."

Father Is Proud of Him.

Mr. Mac Lean is just as practical in his views for the future of the Billionaire Baby as the mother.

"What am I going to make of him?" he asked. "Why a healthy, sturdy, normal boy, of course, and then a useful man. He is a husky little fellow and he likes everything that a normal American boy should like. He is fond of horses, and that is especially gratifying to me, for horses are my hobby. Any boy who takes to horses and sticks to them for his diversion is safe, for then there are fewer chances of his being weaned from the healthy outdoor life to that of the all-night cafes that have played such havoc with the young sons of wealthy parents. He has all the pets and boy could desire, and we intend to let him run just as wild at Black Point Farm as he cares to. In fact we took that place for him, and that he enjoys every second of his stay there could never be doubted by anyone who sees him at play with his little negro chum."

Black Bill likes the Black Point Farm, too. He admits that it has many advantages over the old Southern plantation where he first saw the light of day and then, too, playing valet to a Billionaire Baby gives him advantages that he did not possess when, as a barefooted little plectaninny, he was content to live in a little log cabin and call it home. Now Bill's quarters are just as comfortable, if not as luxurious, as those of his little master, but then Bill never cared much about luxuries anyhow. Even now he feels much more at home in his bare feet than he does in pinching shoes, "billed shirts," or stiff collars, for that matter. He is just as wholesome as the Mac Leans hope to keep Vincent, and that is why they adopted him.
